

Enrol Your Children in School

Under

Australian law, children must attend school until they are 15 years old. You should enrol your children in a school as soon as possible. The government provides public schools. Churches and other groups provide private schooling. Public schooling is free and users pay fees for private schooling.

Note:

Students holding temporary visas may be required to pay full school fees. Check with individual schools for details.

The positions in higher education have entry levels that students must achieve to get them. The people most likely to succeed get the positions first. Some students start when they finish school. Other students start study later as an adult.

See:Education